HAIR NOTES: Tight ponies and buns can take this dominatrix. Glamorous, touchable and loose waves keep your look expensive, but stop it from going severe.

DANGER-GLAM LIPS

ON RUNWAY Gucci, Carolina Herrera, Lela Rose, Roksanda Ilincic, Altuzarra Film-noir fabulous. We're soaking up the season's vintage merlots, blood-red burgundies, rich and voluptuous clarets – and it's intoxicating. Glossy, glamboyant, top-shelf chic, this is as maximal as maintenance gets but a seductive-as-hell conversation starter – so worth it. An everyday nude, neutral type? Prepare to catapult out of your comfort zone!

ON REAL GIRL

We've never, ever clocked Grazia intern Sasha Haycraft in lip colour. "Not my thing," she shrugs, ducking and weaving away from the deep, luscious shades of the shows. "I'm just not a lip girl." Oh, really? Plush 20-something lips, bone structure some would eBay internal organs for...Peita has a point to prove. "Anyone really can wear a drama lip," she says, tracing Sasha's pre-conditioned lips with liner. Born-curvy mouths are built for it, thinner lips get fullness from gloss – or channel Pat McGrath at Gucci and upsize with a bright red highlight in the centre of wine lips. "A quality lipstick does all the work for you." Sasha's lids are near-naked, smooth black mascara scoops lashes to the ceiling. It's an exclamation point on her almost-cobalt eyes. She's mirror-gazing: "I have never seen myself like this...I love it!" Her posture clicks into position, she shoots a fatale stare straight down the barrel of the camera. Click, click, click...all keepers. Not a lipstick girl? Converted. ▶

Less TRENDS

New season, A/W reinvention – time to shake it up! Grazia officers early adopt three super-trends and wear them in the real world. If we can, you can...

AFTER epically upgrading our hard-to-handle hair to frizz-free gorgeousness, rocking our worlds and creating a buzz that exploded right off the charts, the Keratin Complex Smoothing Treatment was yanked from salons late last year amid a formaldehyde controversy.

There was debate: the makers of Keratin Complex maintained it passed several formaldehyde safety tests and the one it failed in Australia (the HPLC test, if you're big on detail) didn't apply to their formula anyhow.

But safety-board types aren't into wiggle room. Risky or not? We were left wondering...

So all upstanding for the new Keratin Complex Elite salon service – straight As on all super-strict safety checks. This take-two goddess-hair treatment does the same colour-resuscitating, de-frizzing, straightening thing as the original, still lasts months and will be on the service card at your hairdresser starting this week.

Stay tuned for the new LiQWD and California Smooth grain-derived keratin hair glorifiers being launched soon too. Just in time to short circuit out-of-control winter hair... Phew.

Smooth operator: we're booking in for the new-gen Keratin Complex Elite

THE DIY KERATIN CURE

IN THE downtime, we fell for a fab new formaldehyde-free keratin therapy. The Organix Ever Straight Brazilian Keratin Therapy 30-Day Smoothing Treatment ($29.99, 1800 052 844) lasts a month-ish and is an easy at-home affair.

Only requirements? A sink, a decent straightener and 48 hours of marination time – no shampooing, styling or fussing while the treatment takes.

Beauty assistant Julia Teen prefers it sleek and poker-straight. Her report: "My blowdry time is way down, I haven't needed a straightener since and my colour is so much glossier. Loving it."

Click on to grazia.com.au for Julia's step-by-step how-to guide for application.

EVERYONE'S TALKING ABOUT...

KERATIN, TAKE TWO

Cue the stampede back to salon! Professional keratin hair taming is back and ticking all the safety boxes. Yep, we're dancing a bit too!
