From the Editor

News meetings at OK! can get quite, um, colourful, but when I heard Associate Editor Ali, exclaim, 'You'll never guess what I found down my husband's pants the other night', even I was shocked. But before you get the wrong idea, she was talking about cash – $3000 in fact. Bored at the pub, her hubby had decided to throw a few bucks into a pokie machine, only to hit the proverbial jackpot. Which he celebrated liberally before arriving home giggling and concealing large wads of cash. As we asked what she, sorry, they planned to spend the money on, one of the team, who shall remain nameless, sighed, 'If only my husband would come home with something that exciting in his pants!' And that, dear readers, is why we have a staff quote book.

QUIFF ROLL

Expert: Kam Huckins,
Gallo Hair Stylist

1 Work a mousse (A) into the roots of damp hair and comb through. Blow-dry (B), completely smoothing the ends with a paddle brush (C). 2 Take a horseshoe section at the front of your head (from temple to temple and halfway back) and clip out of the way. 3 Backcomb the remaining hair and spray lightly with hairspray (D). Then brush the hair towards the back, keeping it very smooth and tight on the sides, and mould the hair into a simple roll – pinning in place at the back of the head. 4 Unclip the front section and backcomb to create firmness. Hold the hair directly up and roll the hair around three fingers from ends to roots to create the roll. Once positioned, secure with pins (E) and hairspray.

BOUFFANT CHIGNON

Expert: Caterina Di Biase,
Heading Out Hair Artistic Director

1 Apply mousse and volumiser to the top section of damp hair (A) and blow-dry with a round brush (B). 2 Reserve the front section of the hair for later, and secure the back section into a ponytail – twisting in an upward motion so the hair forms into a tight roll at the back of the head. Tuck the end of the ponytail in and secure with fringe pins (C). 3 Pull both sides of hair back and neatly tuck the remaining ends under – pinning into place. 4 Tease the top front section of the hair towards the crown area. Then brush all of the hair back over the top of the pinned area to cover and disguise the hair underneath. 5 Finish with a spritz of hairspray (D) and gloss spray (E) to add shine.
